Application for Community Healing/Education Initiatives

Information on Confidentiality Policy

The Healing Fund for Japanese Canadians offers programs for community education and healing for survivor families of Nakayama's clergy sexual abuse and for the communities that have been affected. These healing initiatives are possible through funding from the Anglican Church of Canada as a step in the reconciliation process. If you require any help with this form please contact a member of the Healing Fund. A list of frequently asked questions can be found at www.anglicanhealingfundforjapanesecanadians.com/faq

All personal information provided by applicants will be confidential between you and the Healing Fund for Japanese Canadians Project Office – referred to as the Healing Fund PO. The Anglican Church of Canada does not have access to these application forms or email correspondence. Applicants will not have contact with representatives of the Anglican Church of Canada. Any questions or concerns can be raised to a member of the Healing Fund.

How to apply

1. We recommend contacting the Healing Fund administrator to discuss your project idea.
2. Fill in the application questionnaire.
3. Attach a budget breakdown for your initiative.
4. You may also attach a maximum two-page summary (800 words) describing your project or activity and your goals for it. Please include how it relates to healing community trauma, especially as it relates to Nakayama's clergy sexual abuse.
5. Send your application package to anglicanhealingfund@najc.ca.
